HONGKONG, OCTOBER 19TH, 1905.

THANKS mainly to the good sense of King Oscar, the partition of Sweden and Norway, which for some time seemed not unlikely to lead to an internecine struggle between the two Scandinavian monarchies, has been brought to a peaceful conclusion, and the two nations, though not under one head, have come to recognise the fact that each and both have been saved from a great danger. But not only are the Scandinavian States to be congratulated on the result but the whole of Europe, as there is now no doubt that one of the first results of a war between the States would have been a claim on the part of Russia and Germany to declare the Baltic a closed sea. England bound by the traditions of centuries to friendship with both countries could have taken part with neither. Russia does not feel quite assured with regard to her hold on Finland, and has contrived to alienate the Scandinavian population of that country; to render herself more secure she has been desirous of what she calls a rectification of her frontiers along the Arctic Ocean, and it was presumed that Norway would have had no objection to cede her Finnmark, which would have given her what she is most desirous of, an ice-free port opening directly on the Atlantic coast. Surrounded on all sides, Sweden would have been helpless, and the moral effect on the Finlanders of having a free Scandinavian State in close proximity would have been effectually counteracted. It seems strange that in the beginning of the dispute Norway did not sufficiently appreciate the consequences of pressing her claims to contingence, and that it was only through the superior political presence of the King and the Government of Sweden that the great common danger has been momentarily, at least, averted. The only source of gratification left is that at the last moment both nations did come to see the danger to themselves, and that now that all possible sources of dispute have been removed, both are better able to see the primary necessity of a close alliance.

But Sweden and Norway are not the only two countries where internal differences, in reality of very little moment to either, have been raised to the position of international ill-feeling. The second instance is perhaps of greater importance to the peace of Europe. For centuries Austria and Hungary have similarly been two independent countries with different political aspirations united under the one dynastic head. Such a close connection demands rare administrative abilities on the part of the ruling house, but the House of Hapsburg has been from its first accession to the Imperial dignity singularly wanting in those qualities which go to make great leaders, and from the time of the election of RUDOLF, Count of Hapsburg, till its final extinction in 1906, their want served as a basis for the continuous weakening of the Empire. The Congress of Vienna did not attempt to restore the Empire, but made a curious compromise, and reinstated the House of Hapsburg as Emperors of Austria, giving them a very extensive state indeed, but one composed of very dissimilar elements, partly German, but also, so far as mere population is concerned, more largely Magyar and Slavonic. The Hapsburgs had no more loyal subjects than the people of Hungary, whose traditions always recalled their great "King," as they loved to call the Empress MARIA THERESA, a bit, acting on the bad traditions of the so-called "Holy Alliance," no sooner was FRANCIS, the first Emperor of Austria, restored to power than he proceeded to treat Hungary as a conquered country, and subordinated her independence to the German provinces. The result was the rebellion of 1848. NICOLAS I. of Russia, which was then in the plenitude of its power, sent an army into Hungary on behalf of the Holy Alliance, and, having routed the insurgents, handed back the country to the Hapsburgs. Placed between two fires the then Emperor FERDINAND resigned in favour of his nephew FRANCIS JOSEPH, who at first was disposed to accept a liberal constitution; but finding himself overpowered by his German advisers he, however, renewed the old policy. After the loss of the Italian dependencies of the House of Austria wiser counsels prevailed, and in 1866 the Hungarian constitution was restored, and in the next year the new rule of the double monarchy was established, under which for upwards of thirty years Austria-Hungary continued to flourish. Under pretence of strengthening the Ausgleich, however, some three years ago, the old system of subordinating Hungary to the German provinces of Austria recommenced; objected to in a mild manner by Hungary. The breach thus unwisely commenced has been widening ever since. An arrangement in the interests of both parties was two years ago quite feasible, but the opportunity was lost, and the EMPEROR, under the influence of unwise councillors, has proceeded to measures more or less unconstitutional. Doubtless most of these were momentarily necessary for keeping the state together, and had measures been taken to return at the earliest possible moment to the previous position, they would have been willingly accepted by the Hungarians. This, unfortunately was not done; and the mistaken policy of the EMPEROR was persisted in, and all attempts at compromise rudely rejected. Conscious that they form the most powerful, and until the events of the last few years, the most loyal element in the dual Empire, the Hungarians are now as eager for a separation from their uncongenial partners as have been the Norwegians, and it must be allowed with far greater reason on their side.

Europe is, if possible, still more deeply interested in the result. Any movement which would weaken the consistency of the Dual Empire is welcomed eagerly at the courts of Berlin and St. Petersburg; and the dreadful consequences to the Austrian subjects of FRANCIS JOSEPH which would imply, are carefully kept in their mind's eye. Unfortunately a comparatively small but mischievous minority of the Austrian subjects of the Austrian Empire are not themselves untainted with these dangerous fancies, and would be quite ready to back up any advances of Germany, even at the cost of their own political extinction, and this it is that renders the present quarrel, carefully fermented by these unpatriotic subjects of the Emperor FRANCIS JOSEPH, so prophetic of evil. Russia has not yet realised that morally she has caused to be a factor in the progress of the world, and her rulers, so far from rightly interpreting the signs of the times, are still as eager as ever to interfere with their more peaceful neighbours.

North-east papers say that the Peking boat accident came from South China (a Cantonese). The Chinese Minister to Russia has petitioned the Government to recall him as he has been there for so long.

It has been ascertained that the "fighting capacity" of the Albatross has not been impaired by the accident which caused her sinking.

Yesterday was an exceptionally light day at the magistracy, the business at both Courts being completed in less than half an hour.

So far the bodies of the two victims of the collision between the ferry boat and a sampan on Monday night have not been recovered.

It is said that it will require about one peace division of the Japanese army, or 11,334 men, to provide railway guards for the Japanese portion of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Mr. C. D. Melbourne, J.P., took his seat for the first time yesterday afternoon at the Magistracy as acting Second Police Magistrate. Mr. G. N. Orme having been granted two months' leave.

We are pleased to learn that the Rev. J. H. Francis, who has been in hospital for the past week suffering from a severe attack of dysentery, is now convalescent, and will probably be about again in a few days.

A misprint occurred yesterday in our report of the judgment in the Des Vieux Road Inquiry. Mr. Hazeland was made to say that the enquiry disclosed no facts, which should obviously have read "disclosed no offence."

On Tuesday morning a coolie, while he was working cargo on the s.s. Harrogate, fell down the hold and fractured his skull. He was at once removed to the Government Civil Hospital, where he died early yesterday morning.

The owners and charterers of the s.s. Lucia Vittoria (formerly H.M.S. Hummer) are anxious regarding her safety as she is five days overdue at Saigon. She left Hongkong on the 10th instant and should have reached Saigon on the 14th at the latest, whereas, up to the present nothing has been heard of her.

In a criminal case at the Supreme Court yesterday a prisoner endeavoured to persuade the Court that a witness was his boon companion. Among other questions he asked—"Is it not a fact that I have known you for the last four or five years?" "It may be so," was the reply. "but I don't know you."

The leasehold property known as section B of Island Lot No. 164, together with the messuage thereon known as No. 142 Queen's Road Central, which were to have been sold by public auction at Mr. G. P. Lammert's sales rooms yesterday afternoon, were withdrawn at the last moment.

A Peking dispatch (quoted in the N.C.D.N. "Native Notes") states that it has been officially decided to change the name of the Lu-Han Railway to that of Ching-Han, or Peking-Hankow Railway, which is as it should be. Once the line is in working order passengers will be able to easily travel from Peking to Hankow in thirty-six hours.

At the Union Church Literary Club this (Thursday) evening, Mr. Robert Macpherson, of the Chartered Bank, will read a paper on "Java, the Garden of the East." Mr. Macpherson spent four years in Java. His lecture will happily fill a gap occasioned by Dr. Clark's inability to give just now his lecture on Dickens. Mr. E. F. Ansell will take the chair at nine p.m.

A telegram from Peking, dated 13th October, to the N.C. Daily News said:—The German Minister (Baron A. von Munn) has called at the Waiwupa and stated that several hundred natives have risen at Yenching, Tiao-houfa, Sha; that they are armed with foreign rifles, and are anti-foreign in sentiment. He urged that the Governor of Shantung should be asked to send troops to suppress them.

A Hangchow dispatch to the Nanfengpo states that a French gentleman is now in that city with the object of gaining Governor Nieh Chih-kuei's consent to permit the former to enlist coolies from Ningpo, and T'aihou prefectures to work on the proposed Yunnan-Annam Railway. In the absence of instructions from the Waiwupa Governor Nieh refused to give his consent to the proposal.

The Peking Times says:—In regard to Count Katsura's recent announcement that Japan has obtained, as part of the terms of peace, the privilege of a railway between Kirin and Chanchun, it is pointed out at Tokyo that the distance between these places is about ninety miles, and that the districts on either side of the line are very fertile. The soil there is said to be very suitable for the cultivation of tobacco, wheat, beans, and other valuable crops. Gold dust and various metals, soda, and coal are also found in considerable quantities.

The Nippon Yusen Kaisha has been appointed agents for the Deshler line of steamers. Three steamers, the Ohio I, II, and III are scheduled to carry on the service and will call at Shanghai, Chefoo, Chinkiang, Chemulpo, Fusan, Moji, Kobe, and Osaka. The steamers have accommodations for first, second, and third-class passengers, are electrically lighted, and have steam heating apparatus throughout. The usual privileges of stop-over and interchange-able tickets are granted, and a strict time table is to be kept. The first vessel, the Ohio II, is to leave Shanghai on the 22nd inst.

A WEARY BEACHCOMBER.

As a local resident was walking along Queen's Road on Tuesday evening he was accosted, he says, by a "beachcomber" who told him the usual story about having starved for so many days. All he wanted was a few cents to buy a meal. His hearer advised him to go to the House of Detention. The beachcomber asked to be shown the way there. The gentleman took him to the junction of Queen's Road and Pottinger Street, from whence he directed him. After gazing up the hill for a few seconds the beachcomber put his hand in his trouser's pocket, extracted three or four twenty-cent pieces, and turning to the gentleman said—"Say! How much will it cost to take a chair up there?"

COLLISION IN THE WEST RIVER.

CHINESE TORPEDO BOAT SUNK.

A collision between the s.s. Tai On and the Chinese torpedo boat U Sui took place on Tuesday night, fortunately without involving any loss of life. It is not known exactly how the disaster occurred, but the former vessel, which was on a voyage from Hongkong to Canton, reports that when opposite Kowloon, steaming in Chinese waters, the torpedo boat suddenly appeared in front. It was impossible then to avoid a collision, and the vessels crashed into each other. The U Sui quickly filled with water and sank shortly after the impact. Her crew were taken off in safety and brought to Hongkong.

Another account of the collision is given by a passenger on board the Tai On. The vessel had just got out of the river at Lan Kwei Island when a boat was noticed right ahead. As she had only a mast light showing, they concluded she was stationary or moving very slowly, but suddenly she came forward across the Tai On's bow. The latter's engines were reversed, but too late to avoid collision, and she struck the other vessel, which proved to be the Chinese torpedo boat U Sui about the engine room. A boat was launched from the U Sui which took off two or three men, while the chief officer of the Tai On promptly took off the remainder in their boats. The stricken craft drifted some little distance off, but the tide washed her back and she sank 25 minutes after the collision alongside the Tai On, all her crew of 24 being saved. So eager were some of the Chinese to save their personal effects from the sinking ship that they jumped on board her when she came alongside and rushed below for their belongings. Some of them narrowly escaped going down with her, and only scrambled on board the Tai On just as their craft disappeared.

GERMANY AND CHINA.

M. Gabriel Hanotaux, who as an ex-Minister of Foreign Affairs, and was one period behind the scenes of the diplomatic theatre, is anxious to know what has become of the Anglo-German treaty signed some years ago respecting divided China, a treaty which was in a sense a victory for each of the signatories. M. Hanotaux believes that this treaty has never been denounced and is still in force, and he asks how is Germany affected by it since the conclusion of the extended Anglo-Japanese alliance. Germany, according to M. Hanotaux, through being established in the Shiao-Tung, has been the primary cause of the recent conflict. She is strongly anchored right in the heart of China, and by dominating the Gulf of Korea binds her to England. "If this treaty," he says, "does not draw her rapidly near the Anglo-Japanese group supported by America, she will be forced to act alone. There remains, it is true, another prospect, that is to say, a rapprochement with Russia; but the past experience of a quasi simultaneous occupation of Manchuria and Port Arthur has not been happy for Russia." M. Hanotaux, therefore, concludes that, willingly or not, there will be a period of inactivity for all the Powers directly interested on the banks of the Pe-chili.

WATERSPOUT IN YOKOHAMA HARBOUR.

A most interesting sight was witnessed from the Yokohama Band recently, says the Japan Gazette. For an hour a heavy bank of clouds had been hanging low over the water just outside the Breakwater, and about a quarter past five a long grey spiral came slowly down towards the water. As it approached the surface the sea gradually rose, and there was one long swirling pillar of water and spray from the surface of the sea up to the cloud. The pillar remained for a short time and then parted, one half of it continuing to whirl and gradually moved off passing close to the Japanese ship lying outside. Fortunately no small craft were in the immediate neighbourhood and no casualties occurred.

THE "TIMES" ON THE SITUATION.

LONDON, 16th October.

The Times, summing up the situation, says it does not pretend to know how France came to understand, as with good reason she did understand, that in the event of an unprovoked attack arising out of the Anglo-French agreement, Great Britain would support her; but what ground has Germany, who disdains all dreams of aggression against anybody, to complain about it? Inasmuch as our support would only be given in the case of unprovoked aggression.

FRENCH POLICY IN CHINA.

The N.C. Daily News of Oct. 14 says:—The following telegram, dated Paris, via Peking, appears in yesterday's Nanfengpo—

The Commission, who was sent out by the Chamber of Deputies, has returned to France, and has reported to his Government the results of his investigations into the French colonies in the Far East. He suggests the following policies to be adopted: (1) France should seize the present opportunity, while revising her Commercial Treaty with China, to acquire closer relationship with the latter Empire; (2) she should act in conjunction with Great Britain in securing railway concessions in China; (3) she should enter into an alliance with Great Britain to enlarge and secure their common advantages in China; (4) she should obtain an understanding with Japan with regard to the commercial and colonising opportunities in the neighbourhood of India and China; (5) she should, conjointly with Great Britain, request Siam to remove her troops from the Meinam, transforming the latter into a neutral highway; (6) and she should urge Siam to abolish the tariff on opium imported by French merchants.

The opinions and suggestions of the Commission carry enormous influence in France, and will no doubt be carried into execution. As the French Commercial Treaty will soon be revised, I send this news to our countrymen that they may be prepared to meet the new French policy in the Far East.

NEW ADMIRALTY SCHEME.

OIL-FUEL DEPOT TO BE ESTABLISHED.

At last we know the intentions of the Admiralty with regard to the Tanchapel wharves, on the eastern side of the Cattewater, writes a Devonport correspondent of a service paper. The property was purchased nearly three years ago, but it would appear that the decision to acquire the site was not the outcome of a fully-matured scheme for its use, but was due to the desire of the Admiralty to obtain possession of all available water-front property in the port. However that may be, it has only just been determined to establish on the site a large oil-fuel depot.

The necessity for an oil-fuel depot in the port has, of course, arisen as the result of the number of large vessels fitted with boilers for the use of this fuel. The extensive alterations in the furnaces of the battleship King Edward VII showed that the use of oil fuel in the navy has passed the experimental stage, and there are indications that the number of ships fitted for the use of oil will be increased in the near future. The provision of a large store of oil in the home ports has, therefore, become essential. It is not intended, however, that warships shall enter the Cattewater, although it is understood that plans provide for improved accommodation for vessels lying along the wharves. As in the past, steamers like the Pelicanus, Khalid, and Scorpio will be utilised to carry the supplies of oil to warships. The commencement of the Admiralty's new scheme will revive a question which has been discussed from time to time for many years—the situation of the naval coaling station in the port.

SUPREME COURT.

Wednesday, 18th October.

IN CRIMINAL JURISDICTION.

BEFORE MR. A. G. WISE (PUNISH JUDGE).

ATTEMPTED MURDER AND ASSAULT.
Chau Lai, boatman, was indicted on the charges of feloniously attempting to drown Detective Li Kua Fuh, with intent to kill and murder the said detective, and with assaulting the said police officer while in the execution of his duty.

Prisoner pleaded not guilty and the following were empanelled as a jury:—M. Mannik (foreman), J. C. McCorquodale, J. Lyne, W. E. Claret, C. F. Gray, S. W. Uddall and R. C. Hurley.

Sir H. S. Berkeley, Attorney-General, instructed by Mr. F. B. L. Bowley, Crown Solicitor, presented, and the prisoner was undefended.

In informing his Lordship and the jury of the facts, the Attorney-General said the prisoner was charged on two counts. One was with attempting to drown a police officer, and the other with assaulting him while in the execution of his duty. At about two o'clock on the morning of the 2nd October the detective was on duty in the harbour in plain clothes with the object of catching, if he could, what might be called coal thieves. A number of men owning small craft, such as the boat owned by the prisoner, called shrimping boats, made it a practice of stealing coal at night. The detective was on duty in the harbour in plain clothes with the object of catching, if he could, what might be called coal thieves. A number of men owning small craft, such as the boat owned by the prisoner, called shrimping boats, made it a practice of stealing coal at night. The detective was on duty in the harbour in plain clothes with the object of catching, if he could, what might be called coal thieves. A number of men owning small craft, such as the boat owned by the prisoner, called shrimping boats, made it a practice of stealing coal at night.

He had taken a sampan from Tsimshatsai and gone to Wanchai Bay where he made fast to a junk. About five o'clock in the morning he saw a fishing boat pass. He followed in his sampan and observed that the boat was joined by three others. He boarded one and seized a man with the object of arresting him. The man resisted and struck the detective, and men from the other boats joined in the attack upon him. The detective blew his whistle but it was snatched from him and he was thrown into the water. Fortunately he could swim. When he rose to the surface he says the men in the boats struck him with bamboo and kept him from getting back on to the boat; they threatened to kill his own sampan's crew if they assisted him. According to his story he swam about for some time and then dived under the boats which surrounded him. When he came to the surface he was again struck at with poles, and feeling exhausted, drew the revolver with which he was armed and fired, hitting one of the men on the boat. Three of the boats then pulled away, and he climbed on to the fourth, covering the people on board with his weapon. He found on board the prisoner, the man who was shot and ten tons of coal; the prisoner was unable to give a satisfactory account of how he came in possession of the coal. The unfortunate man who was shot, died, and at the inquest the jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide. The detective was unable to say what part the prisoner actually took in the affair, but the jury would have no doubt that he was one of the men engaged in the assault and resistance, and rendered assistance in throwing the constable into the water.

After hearing the evidence the jury, without retiring, found the prisoner guilty, and his Lordship sentenced him to nine months' imprisonment with hard labour.

Li Ping Kwan was charged with perjury himself before the Registrar of the Supreme Court in connection with probate matters. The prisoner, who was undefended, pleaded not guilty, and the same jury sat as in the previous case.

Evidence was adduced similar to that published in the Police Court column of the Daily Press. In summing up, his Lordship reminded the jury that at the last sessions a woman was charged with forging the will in question, and was committed to gaol.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty.

In passing sentence his Lordship said the prisoner's defence was very contradictory, and he had not improved his condition by the way he made it. If he had followed the example of Li Chu Shi at the last sessions he might now be better for it; his Lordship rather believed now that she was a catnap, but she got off with a light sentence. The prisoner was a man, and insisted in his perjury. He would go to gaol for twelve months with hard labour.

A SIMILAR CHARGE.

Li Mai Sia was arraigned for a like offence. He pleaded guilty, and was also sent to gaol with hard labour for twelve months.

The sessions were then adjourned until tomorrow, when his Honour, the Chief Justice, will resume his seat on the bench.
